FRIDAY MARCH 20, 1891.

Oysters Considered. It argues well for the oyster-supply of the future that the people of the great producing States of Maryland, Virginia, and North Carolina are thoroughly aroused to the enormity of the present practice of depleting the natural rocks, and are crying aloud for legislation which will stop the work of destruction. The meeting at Baltimore night before last was on this line. The convention of the oystermen of Tidewater Virginia, proposed by the people of Accomac, is in the same direction. The speeches made at the Baltimore meeting throw a flood of light upon the subject and are of much value. They contain the best thoughts of the scientific men who have studied the subject. Now the Virginia convention will permit the presentation of the observation and experience of men of practical training in oyster-culture. Thus to gether we will have a treasury of information upon which to base new laws.

We see no alternative but in a better and longer leasehold for the oyster-planter and greater protection for the natural beds. The ovstermen should make it plain to all Virginia that their interests and the interests of the State lie in the same direction. That done, the desired legislation When the Accomac people come to fix a place for the convention, we wish them to know that Richmond would consider it an honor to have them select this city. A hall will be provided and all the delegates will be warmly welcomed. "The Lawyers Led."

Under this heading the Norfolk Land. mark has an article which is a rather remarkable one. We give it below and leave it to our readers to decide for themselves whether our Norfolk contemporary condemns the New Orleans irregularities or

"THE RICHMOND DISPATCH, alluding pronently to the fact that Lawyer Parkerson, Law-yer Denegre, and Lawyer Wickliffe were the leaders of the avenging column at New Orleans Saturday, emphasizes the importance of that class of professional men to a community. They occupy the relation of physicians who are com-petent to find remodies for disease which the average man is unqualified to treat without an advisory agent. Really it would seem as it the people acted under the advice of coun-set in going to the prison and killing the men who had escaped through the fear or dishonesty of a jury. The DISPATCH pays a high compliment to the legal fraternity in recognition of the important part its members took in this revolutionary and tragic affair. Were it not for the knowledge we have of the extreme modesty of our lawyer friends as to their public service in this direction we should corexercised. These legal gentlemen, conscious of the failure of the law, whose disciples they were came forward as volunteers to transcend its in unctions and defy its restraints in order that

The Secretary of State ought always to be a trained lawyer. We should as soon think of appointing a man not a lawyer to be a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States as of appointing a man not a lawyer to conduct our national diplomatic negotiations.

More Reckless Driving. To the Editor of the State: Cannot something be done to break up the habit of fast and neckless driving in this city? No longer than yesterday afternoon one of my little boys was knocked down and considerably bruised by one of these wild drivers near Seventh and Leigh streets. If the police cannot prevent is there is only one remedy left for the citizens, and that is to use a little lead, which will have No other city in the world of our size

The drivers have never been taught the common-law doctrine that at a public crossing they should "slow down" and let the pedestrians cross in safety and peace. Alderman Capens has introduced and seeured the adoption of a resolution looking to an amendment of the city ordinances on this subject. But even now we insist that the common law, common sense, and immemorial usage in civilized communities entitles people afoot to protection (at crossings) from the recklessness of drivers.

LOUISA'S TWO WEEKLY PAPERS. Reform in Election Campaigns-The Fire District Rebuilt-Deaths.

ndence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]
LOUISA, March 18.—The Mineral City Pior having fallen heir to the outfit of the old Louisa Abunes, a new paper has lately been established here by Mr. J. E. Bibb, bearing the name of the Louisa County Ness, and now old Louisa county has two live, energetic weekly journals within six miles of each other, and doubtless they will look well to the interests, not only of their respective towns, but of the county at large.

on last County-Court day there was a massmeeting of citizens in the interest of reform in election campaigns. It is not to be understood from this fact that our county's politics or political methods are especially had, for doubtless they compare, indeed, favorably with those that obtain anywhere; but our people simply book the initiatory step to what should prove a general and widespread determination to relegate to the far rear the purchasable element in political campaigns and discountenance the furtherance of the least encouragement in the matter of bribing, either directly or indirectly. Very vigorous speeches were made by prominent citizens of opposing political opinions and affiliations,
and it was determined to appoint a committee consisting of two citizens from each district (representing the two respective great parties)
whose duty it shall be to investigate the subject and prepare and extensively publish an address embodying the views of the meeting on this subject. This is, indeed, an important matter, and the counties throughout the State should promptly follow the noble example of old Louisa in this regard.

NYMERGES CHANGES. NUMEROUS CHANGES.

NUMEROUS CHANGES.

Many changes have come over this cld town within the last few years. It will be remembered that this place was a victim to the fire-field just a few years age, but the burned district has almost entirely been built up. The gaps made by the reaper beath are quite noticeable to those who have not visited the town within a few years, in some instances death has claimed entire families—this not the result of any unhealthfulness. a some instances death has claimed entire families—this not the result of any unhealthfulness addent to the locality, for indeed this is an expetionally healthful location, nor yet to any estitione of contagious disease—only natura northusy causes. This is notably the case of the amended H. W. Murray's family. It will be resombered that Captain Murray was at the time in the design of the desired of the first death of the desired of the d BEMOVALS.

Very many of the faces, too, one was went to see a few, years ago are now conspicuous by absence caused by removal. Judge Gooch has removed to Roanoke, where your correspondent understands he has very sungly entrenched himself in the esteem of the people and is "well to." J. B. Levy, who for so many years faithfully discharged the duties of agent for the Chesspeake and Ohio Railway Company her has also gone to Roanoke, and I understand he is rated in the commercial books as having the sung and convenient little sum of a hundred thousond subject to his check. Other instances along this line might be mentioned.

"RESTRICTIONS."

"RESTRICTIONS."

Occasionally we find a man who has never heard of the "Louisa restrictions." This "restrictive" feature is an anomaly possessed by few towns, we presume. To state it briefly, it is this—the exclusive hotel, restaurant, liquorealoon, &c., privilege is vested in the botel property. It appears that the ground upon which the town has been reared originally all beleaged to the owner of the original "tavern." As but were sold from time to time by this landlord the restrictive feature herein alluded to was put is every deed and hence the "restrictions" have come down through the decades and are in force to-day.

We hear that our neighbor, Mineral City, bid-fair to make rapid strides as soon as sprin-opens and weather for building purposes sets in The promoters of this town express themselves as highly gratified at the outlook.

Mr. J. M. Bickers, one of our oldest and most esteemed citizens, has been confined to his house from severe indisposition for several months. He has had the sympathy of our entire people, who discretely trust that he may speedily and entirely recover his health, and with the coming of good seather they expect to see him at his usual jost again.

DEATH OF MRS. CECILIA L. CARNE. Increase of Gambling-Dens in Alexandria County-Potomac Fishing Late.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.] on Prime street near Alfred last night, in the eighty-seconth year of her age. She was the widow of Richard L. Carne, a leading hardware merchant here during Alexandria's golden era early in the present century. Mesers Richard L. Carne, city superintendent of public schools, and William F. Carne, of the Baltimore Sun, two of Alexandria's prominent citizens, are her sons. The deceased lady has many friends in Richmond among the old students of St. John's Academy, who love her for her kindness to them when they were school-koy. Her funeral will take place from St. Mary's church on Saturday morning next. norning next.
THE DENS DOUBLED.

The pension delta.

The gambling-dens in Alexandria county at the south end of the Long bridge have, since the suppression of the pool-rooms, &c., within the limits of the District of Columbia, almost doubled in number, and the place is now known as the Monte Carlo of Washington. So large are the throngs that go out to this place from Washington that a special lime of herdies will be established to accommodate this travel. This place has always been an eyesore to the people of Alexandria county, and efforts have been made time and again to break the gambling-holes up, but whenever a raid is made on the place by the county authorities no one can be found who knows anything about the gambling or the gamblers. Among the patrons of this place can be found men of all ages and colors and a goodly sprinkling of boys not yet out of their teens, who can smoke, chew, and swear with the oldest and most hardene of the gamblers. Such a school is this Monte Carlo I

A LATE FISHING SEASON.

The cold weather of the past two weeks has thrown the Potomae fishing season about a month behind time. Generally the fish commence to run early in March, but this year few, if any, fish have been caught. The owners of the fishing shores are, however, sending down gangs of men and gotting everything in proper trim to work the shores. The main catch in the Potomae are of shad and herring, but since the United States Fish Commission has stocked the river with black bass numbers of them are caught. It is thought by old fishermen that this will be a good season, and that the catch will be large.

The funeral of Miss Edward Patterson tool place from St. Mary's church, and was attended by a host of the friends of the doad lady. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The annual report of the Health Department of New York, just forwarded to the Mayor of that city, states that the number of deaths in New York during 1890 was 40,103 and the number of births $9,250. The death rate is estimated at 24.58 per 1,000 last year, against 25.06 in 1889. "The decrease of mortality in 1890, it is claimed, is due to the increase of charitable institutions and an improvement in the condition of tenements."

Patients Admitted to the Insane Hospital. One Hundred Harmless Incurables-Operator Dies in Convolsions.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.] this evening Mayor Thompson made his report, in which he specially urges the board to build an auditorium and a public hospital, and the remodelling of the City for city purposes. There is a fund of $26,000 for the hospital.

Almost the only constant supervision which the Government exercises over the private corporations which supply London with water is to appoint inspectors, "whose duty it is to see that the law with respect to covered reservoirs is carried out."

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.] (By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

Durham, N. C., March 19.—The Young Men's Christian Association Convention assembled this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in Trinity Methodist church, where it was organized by the election of J. H. Southgate as president. There were about one hundred and thirty delegates present, and more than fifty others arrived on the evening trains. A much larger proportion of young men are in attendance than ever before in the history of the association in this State. Mr. Coulter, the State secretary, arrived this morning from Charlotte, and will remain during the session.

BIBLE-READING. BIBLE-READING.

The Bible-reading this afternoon was conducted by Mr. W. K. Ober, of Georgia, and he is a ready and enthusiastic speaker, full of the Spirit, and thoroughly devoted to his work of organizing associations in the South. Another session will be held tonight, and three sessions daily as the programme calls for. Our citizens are greatly enjoying the presence of so many earnest and devoted Christian young men in their homes, and much good is looked for from this convention. this convention.
